Bio

Singer songwriter Fernanda Karolys is currently out with her debut album "Vago Desiertos". Her single "Vago Desiertos" is now available on iTunes and Spotify. Music collaborations include local L.A. artists and musicians from Mexico and Ecuador.

Fernanda has been part of the Los Angeles scene as a recording artist and performer with projects such as Helios Jive, and Clorofila of Nortec Collective, Henry Pope, Nicola Cruz, etc. She has toured United States, Europe, South America, and Mexico playing renowned festivals and venues like Coachella, Burning Man, Lightning in a bottle, Electric Picnic, Lunario, among others.

Karolys has collaborated in many albums most recently with Henry Pope on the song "Luz" from the Album "Waiting" having Buzz Bands LA write:

"... Fernanda Karolys lends her sensual voice to "Luz" [...] Henry Pope's forward-thinking electro..." Also, Clorofila of Nortec Collective: "BabyRock Rock," of "Corridos Urbanos," featured in the publications Rolling Stone and Chilango Magazine and played on numerous radio programs.

Another favorite is the Colombian Palenke Soul Tribe song: "No voy a morir" rated Top Tune on Kcrw "Morning Becomes Eclectic" with frequent rotation. She lent her voice to Maleco Collective song "respira" and is a founding member of the Ecuadorian rock cult band "Pulpo 3" with their album "Excitador de Frecuencias".

Most recently Fernanda continues her music exploration in South America with Quito as her playground. Local producers and musicians incorporate Andean sounds, latin soul and vintage synths to her eclectic music. Stay tuned for new singles and videos.

Karolys first solo album "Vago Desiertos" is a bi-lingual colorful mixture of musical tendencies spun off from minimalistic melodies. From folk to spaghetti western to alternative rock, this record navigates through multilayers of synthetic textures composed upon solid structures of pop sensibility. Lyrics insinuate a complex world of universal feelings mixed up with nostalgic experiences mediated by the Californian landscape. This half Spanish - half English album mashes a multicultural talented crew of musicians and it also features remixes of artists such as Nicola Cruz, and guest producers

...“The singer of the mythic band Pulpo 3 debuts “Stars and Sun” under her solo name. It’s a mix of Andean folklore with hints of blues and soul, a sublime combination when singing is done in both English and Spanish. ...Radio Cocoa

...“This introspective album initiates the solo venture of Fernanda Karolys. “Vago Desiertos” is composed of electronic textures over a fresh Indie Pop passage. Give attention to the bilingual mix of traveling sounds”.Radio Cocoa 2018

... “Her voice is part of the genetic map of Ecuadorian music. Fernanda Karolys is one of the more powerful and Iconic feminine voices of the Ecuadorian scene”.... Pulso blog 2016
